1 Data Gathering

1.1 Sources of Data

A vast amount of historical data can be found in various file formats, including:

- MS Word documents
- Emails
- Spreadsheets
- MS PowerPoints
- PDFs
- HTML
- Plain text files

1.1.1 Public and Private Archives

- Public Data: The Open Knowledge Foundation describes Open Data as “any content, information, or data that people are free to use, reuse, and redistribute without any legal, technological, or social restriction.”
- Private Data: Data related to an expectation of privacy and regulated by a particular country/government.

1.2 Structured and Unstructured Data

1.2.1 Structured Data

Structured data is organized into fixed fields within a file or record. It's easily entered, classified, queried, and analyzed. Examples include:

- Data in relational databases
- Data in spreadsheets

1.2.2 Unstructured Data

Unstructured data lacks organization and does not fit into a predefined data model. Examples include:

- Raw data
- Photo contents
- Audio and video recordings
- Web pages

- Blogs
- Books
- Journals
- White papers
- PowerPoint presentations
- Articles
- Emails
- Wikis
- Word processing documents
- Text in general

1.3 Data Collection Methods

- Web Scraping: Mining data from the web using a web scraping application.
- Internet of Things (IoT): Sensors embedded in various devices (e.g., smartphones, cars, airplanes, street lamps, home appliances) capture raw data.
- Open Data: Data that is freely available for public use.
- Private Data: Data that is subject to privacy regulations and restrictions.

3 Web Scraping

Web scraping, also known as web harvesting or web data extraction, refers to the process of extracting data from websites. Web scraping software can directly access the World Wide Web using the Hypertext Transfer Protocol (HTTP) or a web browser. While web scraping can be performed manually by a user, the term typically refers to automated processes implemented using a bot or web crawler. It involves gathering specific data from the web and copying it, usually into a central local database or spreadsheet, for later retrieval or analysis.

7 Data Preparation

7.1 Overview

Collected data may not be compatible or formatted correctly. Data must be prepared before it can be added to a dataset.

7.2 Extract, Transform, and Load (ETL)

This process involves collecting data from various sources, transforming it, and then loading it into a database.

7.3 Data Preprocessing

Data preprocessing involves cleaning raw data collected from the real world and converting it into a usable dataset.

7.3.1 Types of Messy Data

1. Missing Data: Occurs when data is not continuously created or due to technical issues.
2. Noisy Data: Also known as outliers, caused by human errors or technical problems during data collection.
3. Inconsistent Data: Arises from human errors or duplication of data.

7.3.2 Basic Preprocessing Techniques

1. Conversion of Data: Categorical and ordinal data need to be converted into numeric features for machine learning models.
2. Ignoring Missing Values: Remove rows or columns with missing data, depending on the extent of missing values.
3. Filling Missing Values: Fill missing data with mean, median, or highest frequency value.
4. Machine Learning: Predict missing data using existing data.
5. Outliers Detection: Identify and handle error data that deviates drastically from other observations.
